INTRODUCTION

Established in the year 2013, K Technologies, always focus on providing world class and high quality service to its customers.

K Technologies provides high quality security services to the companies and individuals. We also provide quality CCTV camera, Bio Metric Products, Access Control System, Video Door Phone, Office, Home & Hotel Automation, installation and maintenance services in Karnataka.

K Technologies is a start-up security devices offering an extensive line of security protection services. The firm consists of four principal officers with a combined industry experience of over 15 years. The company was formed to give security and protection for companies and individuals in terms of professionalism, quality, and customer satisfaction.

K Technologies will be created as a Integrator and Solution Providers based in India County Karnataka State Bangalore City. The firm will be owned and operated by private principal. Our firm's primary target market will be the Karnataka Region, with a focus market segment within our geographic market that will include residential/commercial facilities. Industry competition comes in several forms, typically defined by firm size and scope of service line. Our most significant competition will be small to mid-sized agencies that operate in a narrow market of the Karnataka Region. We have identified four competitors that are considered closely matched to our firm based on size and service line. However, none of the competitors analyzed in this business plan, or otherwise, offer the extensive line of services that our firm offers, nor are they client-centric in their market approach.

K Technologies will capitalize on the significant weakness of our direct competitors to establish our firm as a market leader. There are also large, well known security Device firms such as ABC, XYZ Inc., etc. These companies are generalist in nature and do not focus on a niche market. Furthermore, they tend to employ agents who have limited experience, suffer from high turnover rates, and are focused on servicing a high volume of clients. As a result, these larger competitors tend to take a "mass production" approach towards the industry and lack customer focus in their service delivery. The company's founders have expansive industry experience. Each partner brings a specific area of expertise to the firm and together, these three owners create an extremely experienced and well-balanced team. They are founding K Technologies to formalize the security protection services they offer and to bring a fresh perspective to the security protection industry. K Technologies will be managed by its working expert workers and will hire key management personnel as is appropriate to their growth projections and marketing strategies.

K Technologies intends to use its existing contacts to develop strategic alliances and a comprehensive marketing program that will position their firm in a manner that their mission and objectives will be realized.
